West Virginia Wesleyan College

1989-1990
Volume 80

DON'T WORRY

HER

As the 1989-90 school year was the year before West Virginia Wesleyan College's centennial celebration, the campus was in a state of pandemonium. As with all celebrations, this one required a great deal of advance preparation, that at times created chaos. Since chaos is a type of pandemonium, this consequently became the theme of the book.

Freshman orientation is a part of this pandemonium. Theta Chi fraternity posted this sign to show that they had a sense of humor about the upcoming pandemonious year. Though this would scare most parents, the campus at large found it to represent the excitement of starting the 99th Wesleyan year.

Right: Many students were excited to be graduating, but some also felt that it had taken too long for their graduation day to come, like this senior.

IN LOVING MEMORY OF DR. THADDEUS JOHN GURDAK

Below: Dr. Gurdak and the acolytes from the Church of the Transfiguration.

Right: Dr. Gurdak at the Church of the Transfiguration.

Center: Dr. Gurdak

Immediate Right: Dr. Gurdak and his daughter Anne.

Dr. Thaddeus John Gurdak was born on June 19, 1944 to Thaddeus Sr. and Mary Dawgiel Gurdak. As a college student, he received his B.A. in Theology in 1966 from St. John's University in Minnesota. He then went on to get his M.A. in the same field at the same school in 1968. That same year, on August 17, he married Miss Rebecca Komarek. Later, after having three children — Stephen, Matthias, and Anne — he received his Ph.D. in Classical Chinese Literature at the University of Wisconsin, Madison in 1976.

In between the times he received his B.A. and his M.A., he worked in the Theology department at Mt. Marty College in Yankton, South Dakota. After receiving his M.A., Dr. Gurdak worked in the Religion

Department at Yankton College in Yankton. After receiving his Ph.D., he came to work at West Virginia Wesleyan as an Associate Professor of Religion. Here he taught courses in Oriental Religions, Phenomenology of Religion and Christian Tradition. He also participated in teaching Chinese Language and taught in an Outreach course. He also taught Humanities, Honors Seminars, and participated in the Elderhostel Program.

On campus his activities included Omicron Delta Kappa, Phi Kappa Phi, being a CORE Advisor, being an Advisor to the social organization Sigma Theta Epsilon, and Chaplain to Episcopal Students at Wesleyan. Outside of Wesleyan, Dr. Gurdak was very busy with other activities, such as being an Ecumenical Delegate to the Annual Conference of the United Methodist Church, and a Coach to the Upshur County Youth Soccer Association.

Dr. Gurdak was also an ordained priest of the Episcopal Church and Vicar of the Church of the Transfiguration in Buckhannon. Dr. Gurdak was an active member of the College Theology Society, and the Conference of Anglican Theologians.

We at the Yearbook Staff express our sympathy and hopes to Mrs. Rebecca Gurdak and am sorry to see such a well-rounded, caring, and involved man leave the Wesleyan Community. We think of him in our prayers every night. God bless him.

You Take the Good

The year 1990 was one filled with many milestones, emotions and changes. The Oakland A's beat the San Francisco Giants in the World Series. Meanwhile, the 49ers took the 24th Super Bowl title from the Denver Broncos.

Politically, the presidency was turned over to George Bush and his running mate Dan Quayle.

In world affairs one of the two biggest breakthroughs happened on March 24, 1989 when the worst oil spill in history occurred in Prince William Sound, Alaska. An Exxon oil tanker, Valdez, ran aground spilling a total of 11 million gallons of crude oil creating an environmental nightmare. Then in late May, tens of thousands of Chinese pro-democracy protesters gathered in Beijing's Tiananmen Square seeking political change. Thousands were killed and wounded in their pursuit of a democratic state. August marked the end of a 4.4 billion mile trip, that took 12 years to complete, by Voyager 2 as it arrived at the planet Neptune. A lot of scientific information and pictures were able to be sent back from this experiment. Another new-breaker was the debut of the Stealth Bomber. Winning rave reviews from Pentagon officials this 530 million dollar project, although difficult to be detected on radar, was considered too expensive.

Hurricane Hugo, Charleston, S.C.

Finally on October 17 at 5:04 PM an earthquake measuring 7.0 on the Richter Scale, hit northern California destroying parts of Oakland and San Francisco. The damages were estimated to be over $2 billion.

On a local level, 1990 was still a landmark year filled with emotion and changes. For starters, upon the students return to Wesleyan in the fall, they discovered that the Top of the SCOW had been remodeled, the $2000 face life was funded by our Quality of Life Fund.

Also this year, as in previous years, students became actively involved with occurrences on campus as well as within the community. Everything from Barbara Lewis starting a mentorship program with French Creek Elementary School, to students protesting the placement of trees in front of Camden, to CROP walking to stop world hunger- the key was the involvement of Wesleyan's students.

In January Wesleyan held its Centennial kick-off celebration. The celebration was to continue through May 1991. Also in January, the American Boychoir performed in Wesley Chapel.

All of these events, and many more, of 1990 enriched our lives, gave us joy and sadness, and added to our lives- and Pandemonium — of being a Wesleyan student.

Whenever they had a chance, many students spent their time participating in sports. Some of these sporting activities were organized by the college, such as the water polo match for Greek Week, right and baseball, bottom right. Others were just groups of friends getting together to have some fun playing pool, below, and Lacrosse, bottom.

PEER GYNT

Peer Gynt, written by Henrik Ibsen, which was performed in April last year, was a unique play in three ways. First of all, this was that last play that Charles I. Presar directed before his retirement. Because it was to be his last play, Presar wanted to make it special, and that he did by making it different from most of the other plays he directed.

Peer Gynt was also unique in that it had a very large cast — thirty-one students played up to six roles apiece. In all, there were one hundred roles that the students played.

Third, this play was different because it was longer than most plays. Each performance lasted over three hours. But, although one might think that such a long show would cause the audience to be restless, Peer Gynt did not because it had such a captivating plot.

The play took place during the early nineteenth century in Scandinavia. It was about the life of a man named Peer Gynt — the changes he goes through during life and the lessons that he learns from them. The title character was played by David Tackett.

To make this play even more special for Charles I. Presar, the cast members who were in Alpha Psi Omega, the theatre fraternity, presented Presar with a plaque on the last performance night. The plaque honored Presar's years as being the head of the dramatic arts department.

W.V.W.C. THEATRE

Three large productions were put on last year by West Virginia Wesleyan College Theatre. These were End of the World with Symposium to Follow, All My Sons, and the Children's Theatre production.

End of the World with Symposium to Follow, written by Arthur Kopit, was presented in October. This play was about a man named Phillip Stone (Kyle Minor) who presents a premise for a play to playwright Michael Trent (Sean McConaha). Trent doesn't want to do this play about the end of the world, but eventually agrees to do it after Stone offers him lots of money and threatens his life.

All My Sons, written by Arthur Miller, was performed in November and was student directed by David Tackett. This play, set in the 1940's, was about the Keller family dealing with a son's disappearance during World War II. It is revealed during the course of the play that the son is dead, and Chris (David Cunningham) discovers that the death of the son is the fault of his father (Ed Moore).

During J-Term and the beginning of second semester, fourteen students presented a Children's Theatre production to audiences of children all through the state. The group travel so that they could perform their show about Winnie the Pooh to many different groups of children.

MENAGE A TROIS

For the first time in several years, Alpha Psi Omega, the theatre fraternity, decided to present a show that consisted of three one-act plays. Three members of Alpha Psi Omega each directed one play, and the entire production was entitled "Menage a Trois."

The first one-act play that was presented was called The Bald Soprano, and was directed by Robert S. Kleinedler. The play, written by Eugene Ionesco, was set in the present in England and consisted of nonsensical dialogue that ridiculed the British aristocracy. Starring in the play were Eric Waggoner, Julia Guercio, Tierney McIntosh Davis, Alan Heil, Debbie Goldstein, and Bil Lepp.

The second play presented was Constantinople Smith, written by Charles L. Mee, Jr. Sean McConaha directed this play that starred McConaha, Miriam Hakam, and Mike Brown. This play was about a man trying to find himself.

Diane Runner directed the third one-act play that was presented, entitled Rise and Shine. Written by Elda Cadogan, this play was about a man named Phillip who wakes up from death and ends up falling in love with a dead girl who turns out to be his great-great grandmother. Rise and Shine starred Kyle Minor, Laura Brewer, Ben Whitlock and Beth Dean.

All three one-act plays were enjoyed by everyone who came to see them as the house was packed every night of production.

FRENCH CREEK PARTNERS IN EDUCATION

Last May Kristina Smith participated in a program called French Creek Partners in Education as her sophomore year internship. This program is designed to let the Upshur County Elementary children know that not only is education important, but possible, too.

With this goal in mind, Kristina was faced with the task of how to accomplish it. She knew that the key was Wesleyan student interaction with the elementary children. After talking with French Creek Elementary School's principal Patti McComas, she came up with two ideas. She gathered together some paint, recruited David Cunningham and Kim Platt, and with the help of French Creek Elementary School's art teacher Mrs. Butler, began painting a Dinosaur Mural on one of the school's cafeteria walls with the children.

After the completion of the Mural, Kristina started on the Ice Cream Social, her second idea. Together with Sean McConaha, Dave Klebe, Dave Cunningham, Miriam Hakam, Aisha Hakam, Heather Bomberger and Jeff Tignor, children's songs were collected and ice cream was made. The week of finals this group headed out to French Creek to sing their songs with the children and feed them their homemade ice cream.

Both ideas were a huge success. Thanks to Kristina, the children's cafeteria has a new form of entertainment. As for the Ice Cream Social, the children of French Creek Elementary still talk about it today.

Providing things to do during study breaks and on weekends was the job of the Campus Activities Board. Directed by Alissa Lively and managed by Clark Neighborgall, the board's president, C.A.B. was quite busy last year arranging entertaining activities for the students.

Among the singing groups that C.A.B. had perform at Wesleyan were the Statler Brothers and The Houserockers, both of whom were well-attended by both students and the public during the month of September. "1964" as The Beatles and Regency were greatly appreciated by students during the latter part of the year. Also, performing in the Jenkins cafeteria several times throughout the year was Kenny Zara.

Aside from musical entertainment, C.A.B. also arranged other types of performances for the students to enjoy. Lynn and Friends came to Wesleyan to perform comedy. And, twice last year, C.A.B. organized Air Band competitions among the students, which gave the students opportunities to provide their own entertainment. Open Microphone, during which students had the chance to get on stage and show off their talents, was also very popular.

All of the activities and entertainers provided by C.A.B. were well-attended, as students were eager to have new things to do during study breaks and on weekends.

JAZZ ENSEMBLE

Twenty students took the time nearly every day to practice playing various instruments. Why? Not only did they do this just for enjoyment, they also dedicated this much time so that they could be members of the West Virginia Wesleyan Jazz Ensemble.

Under the direction of Dr. David Milburn, the Jazz Ensemble performed several concerts last year for both the students and the public. Music selections at these concerts included standard big-band features, contemporary rock pieces, and Latin tunes. Because of the wide variety of the music the Ensemble performed, much practice was required by Milburn.

Milburn also required a lot of practice from the members because of the Ensemble's spring tour. Each year since 1970, when the group was formed, the members toured the eastern United States, and last year was no exception. The Ensemble's members last year performed at several places in West Virginia and its surrounding states.

Obviously, because of the many required performances of the Jazz Ensemble, which were greatly enjoyed by all who attended them, the members were very dedicated to their band.

CHORALE

Almost fifty students took time practically every day to practice singing. These students rehearsed every Monday through Thursday from 4:30 to 5:30 and sometimes at other times, too, just for the pleasure of being in the Concert Chorale.

This much practice was necessary because of the many concerts that the Chorale, directed by Dr. Larry Parsons, performed during the year. The group presented over twenty concerts last year, including the tours that the choir took to sing at other places in West Virginia as well as in surrounding states.

Some of the concerts that the choir performed were in Wesleyan's chapel for both the students and the public. One of these such concerts was the Festival of Lessons and Carols. This was the concert that the group performed for the holiday season in December.

All of the time that the Chorale's members put into practicing for the concerts was obviously well-spent because the audiences at all of the concerts had a wonderful time.

gin the next song. Middle: For each of the choir concerts, their

RETIREMENT FOR CHARLES I. PRESAR

Keeping a secret isn't always easy to do, especially when several people are trying to keep it from one person. But, Sandra Presar and other faculty and students of the drama department managed to keep a secret from Charles I. Presar for an entire semester last year.

The secret they kept was a large one, too. All during the second semester, students and faculty of the drama department secretly telephoned and sent letters to alumna of the drama department to plan a surprise party for Mr. Presar and to find pictures to include in a scrapbook as a gift for him. Then, finally the day of the party arrived, and to get Mr. Presar to come to the stage, where the party was being held, students told him that Alpha Psi Omega, the theatre fraternity, was having a meeting and that he needed to be present. So, Mr. Presar came to the stage, carrying his bookbag with all of his papers concerning the fraternity and expecting a meeting and instead was greatly surprised by a party in honor of his retirement.

Charles I. Presar had been the head of the drama department for many years, so Mrs. Presar and the dramatic arts students felt they had to do something to wish him a happy retirement, even if they were disappointed that he was leaving. So, they planned the party and the scrapbook, both of which were greatly appreciated by Mr. Presar.

ORGANIZATIONS AND HONORARIES

Outstanding Seniors

Each year certain seniors are chosen by the Awards and Elections Committee to be honored as Outstanding Seniors. To be chosen, these seniors must have a grade point average of 3.5 or better, must have leadership abilities, and must be involved in a wide variety of extracurricular activities and honoraries here at Wesleyan.

Row 1: Nathan McBrayer, Kyle Minor, Sarah Kish, and Dr. Barbara Richardson.
Row 2: Beth Bargeloh, Danette Ifert, and Tyler Gruber.

Honors Group

The Honors Group is comprised of those students who are in the honors program here at Wesleyan. To be in the honors program, one must take honors courses. The students in this program will have special notations on their diplomas stating that they were honors students.

Sigma Tau Delta

Sigma Tau Delta is the English honorary. To be a member of this honorary, one must have a 3.0 grade point average in the English courses one has taken, one must have junior status, and one must be in the top thirty-five percent of one's class.

Row 1: Robert S. Kleinedler and Rebecca Sheppard. Row 2: Shelly Crane, Patricia Watson, Deborah Haynes, and Michelle Skinner.

Row 1: June Rose Simmons, Jennifer Zimmerman, Shelly Crane, Jennifer Mistretta, and Cynthia Grose. Row 2: Lisa Rochat, Ann Carroll, Margaret Stanton, Kellee Branch, Jodi Stonesifer, Robin Duncan, Rachel Cochran, and Michele Good.

Panhellenic Council

Panhellenic Council is comprised of members from each sorority on campus. These members oversee everything having to do with sororities, such as Greek Week and the Mr. Wesleyan Contest.

Inter-Fraternity Council

Inter-Fraternity Council is comprised of members of each fraternity on campus. Just as the Panhellenic Council is responsible for overseeing everything having to do with sororities, I.F.C. is responsible for everything having to do with fraternities.

Row 1: David Cunningham, Community Council Representative, Alice Leigh, Advisor, and Michael Thompson, President. Row 2: Ilona Prieto, Secretary/Treasurer, and Laura Malessa, Vice President.

International Students Organization

I.S.O. is a group that is comprised of the students at Wesleyan who are from different countries and of a few American students. This group's purpose is to give the foreign students a chance to get to know each other and to get the foreign students to feel comfortable at Wesleyan and in the surrounding communities.

Diane Runner, Secretary, and Robert S. Kleinedler, Treasurer. Not pictured are Kyle Minor, President, Jeff Sluder, Vice President, and Philip Beck, Historian.

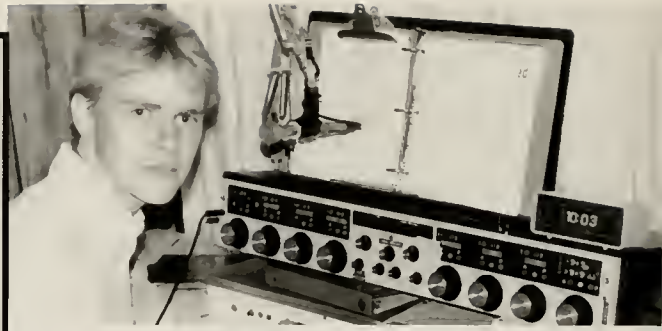

Alpha Psi Omega

Alpha Psi Omega is the National Theatre Honorary Fraternity. Students are chosen to be a part of this group if they have consistently shown dedication to the theatre. Alpha Psi Omega presents several theatre shows each year and also has a major responsibility in the theatre shows presented by the college.

W.V.W.C. F.M. 92

W.V.W.C. F.M. 92 is a student-run radio station. About forty students participated in it throughout the year, but before they could become jockeys, they each had to have a radio license. The students played a wide variety of music so that everyone on campus would have the opportunity to hear his favorite type of music.

Matthew Heere

Jeffery Siuder, Manager, and Robert S. Kleinedler, Program Director.

Black Student Union

The Black Student Union is comprised of most of the black students on campus. The group deals with all topics concerning blacks on campus and also provides a chance for the black students to get together and get to know each other.

Charles Palma, House Manager, Robyn Frier-son, Vice President, and Stephen Ever-ette, Chaplain.

Minority Task Force

The Minority Task Force is a group that was formed with several purposes in mind. The members of this group help to make the Wesleyan community to be better informed about the needs of ethnic students, help the campus to better understand cultural diversity, and help to integrate the ethnic students with the other Wesleyan students.

Row 1: Korey Sims, Sue Lee, and Trina Dobberstein. Row 2: Paul McArdle, Jenene McFadden, and Michael Graves.

Christian Life Council

The Christian Life Council oversees all of the Christian organizations and activities on campus. The members organize and help with Intersarsity, Loveshine, and the Wesley Fellowship.

Laurie-Ann Opuszynski, President. Not pictured are Heidi Reich, Vice President, Abby Kirk, Secretary, and Kenneth Whitlock, Treasurer.

Circle K

Circle K is a service organization that is a break-off from the Kiwanas Club. Last year they did two major service projects — a penny drive to help the Kidney Foundation, and a rocking chair marathon to benefit the Ronald McDonald House.

Michael Stanger, Treasurer, Philip Beck, President, Danelle Bland, Secretary. Jeff Tignor, Vice President not pictured.

Community Council

Community Council is Wesleyan's Student Government Body. This group is comprised of 12 Organizations on campus, the Executive Members, 3 Administration Members, a Faculty Representative, and the Presidents from the four classes. This year Council was involved in the locations of the new Theatre and Dining Hall.

Nancy Cofield and Michelle D'Souza

S.N.O.W.

S.N.O.W. stands for the Student Nurses of Wesleyan, and to be a part of this group one must be a nursing major at Wesleyan. The members of this group are affiliated with the state nursing association.

Omicron Delta Epsilon

The economics club is comprised of students who have taken at least twelve hours of economics courses, have at least a 3.0 grade point average, and have junior standing.

Miriam Hakam, Mustafa Aleyesed, Nathan McBrayer, Cindy Shotter, and Cindy Beardmore.

Murmurmontis

The Murmurmontis staff is comprised of the people who do the yearbook each year. Pictured at right are those students who worked on the yearbook until May of 1990; however, they did not complete much work on the yearbook. So, the following year, David Cunningham, Michelle Harbaugh, and Diane Runner completed almost all of the work on the 1989-90 book.

Forensics Team

The Forensics Team is an academic competitive activity of the Communication and Dramatic Arts Department. The members compete in individual speech and oral interpretation events at intercollegiate tournaments.

Row 1: Kristina Smith, Shannon Keen, and Kristi Hoover. Row 2: Danette Ifert, Linda Eshbaugh, Clare Sulgit, and Tonia Guy. Row 3: Scott Cotgreave, Daniel Santone, Anthony Chuck, Nathan McBrayer, and James Shackleford.

When the Murmurmontis transferred editors, some pictures for this section were lost. As Editor, I attempted to set up a day for each of the Organizations on campus to get a chance to have their picture retaken. However, very few Organizations took this opportunity. To them I am exceedingly grateful, but the following Organizations did not take advantage of this opportunity:

In late August of 1989, Wesleyan's largest Freshman class since 1984 marched onto the Wesleyan campus. Doney Hall opened up all four of its' floors, three of which were previously used for storage, and first floors Fleming and Holloway opened, all to allow space for the 400 plus people.

Over the course of that first weekend, the large group was split up into 25 groups containing up to 20 students apiece, participating in the new CORE Orientation program. The program included a new aspect; along with the usual CORE Olympics and President's Reception, etc, the students were introduced into a one-credit course. From the first day of classes to November 1st, the students met once a week to learn about and experience College life. This new program met to different opinions among the Freshmen, but it apparently will continue for several more years.

It's hard to describe the feeling a Nursing major feels during their Pinning Ceremony. Most say it's equivalent to the way Graduation feels to a Senior. This is understandable, since the presentation to a Senior of their Nursing Pin signifies their completion of the Wesleyan Nursing Program.

The final part of the ceremony is the International Florence Nightingale Pledge recited by the new Nurses:

In full knowledge of the obligations I am undertaking, I promise to care for the sick with all the skill and understanding I possess without regard to race, creed, color, politics, or social status, sparing no effort to conserve life, to alleviate suffering, and to promote health.

I will respect at all times the dignity and religious beliefs of the patients under my care, holding in confidence all personal information entrusted to me, and refraining from any action which might endanger life or health.

I will endeavor to keep my professional knowledge and skill at the highest level and to give loyal support and cooperation to all members of the health team.

I will do my utmost to honor the international code of nursing ethics and to uphold the integrity of the professional nurse.

HOMECOMING 1989

Homecoming was a special time of year for all people associated with Wesleyan — students, alumni, faculty, and administration — because it was a time for all to reminisce about past years at Wesleyan and to look forward to future ones.

The festivities began on Friday night with the crowning of the 1989 Homecoming Queen. Tracy Manzini was both surprised and proud to have been chosen as the queen, but she was also thrilled for the other students chosen to be on her court. Later on that night, as dictated by tradition, a Queen's Ball was held.

Saturday morning was also quite festive. Fraternities, sororities, and other campus organizations had worked hard since early in the month of October to make floats, and this was the morning they were to be displayed and judged. Then, for lunch, a campus picnic was held, and after that, everyone went to the traditional Homecoming football game.

From attending the coronation of the queen and watching the football game, a good time was had by all during the weekend of the 1989 Homecoming.

Right: Senior Tracy Manzini was chosen to be the 1989 Homecoming Queen. She was chosen through the traditional practice of having the student body vote on who they felt should be the queen. Below: Queen Manzini poses with the members of her court, who are also chosen by the students' votes.

CAMPUS CHRISTMAS

The Wesleyan campus has traditionally celebrated Christmas in many different ways, and 1989 was no exception. Holiday cheer was brought to the campus by the Festival of Lessons and Carols and by the Christmas on Campus program.

The Festival of Lessons and Carols was the December concert on the choir. Along with the choir singing, students and faculty members read passages relating to the holiday season. Then, the entire audience along with the choir went outside of the chapel to gather around the giant fir tree. As everyone sang carols, the tree's lights were turned on. Although it was cold outside, no one complained because of the magic of the evening.

Also in December, the students and faculty helped with the Christmas on Campus program. This program consisted of bringing children from Buckhannon onto the campus and giving them tours. At each tour stop was a new activity for the children, such as race-running and face-painting. Students volunteered to be tour guides for the children.

Another holiday activity was the Hanging of the Greens. This was when the students and organizations decorated the chapel for the Christmas events.

The Christmas season was enjoyed by all at Wesleyan.

MR. WESLEYAN

Spring semester of 1990 was the second year that the members of Zeta Tau Alpha sponsored, produced, and hosted a Mr. Wesleyan contest. The contest is actually a fundraiser for the Zeta's philanthropy, the Association for Retarded Citizens.

Barbara Lewis was the host of this competition, and she led the contestants — Eric Waggoner, Brett Haight, Colin Rocke, and Larry Johnson — through the steps of casual wear, talent, and formal wear. The judging panel, which consisted of members of the faculty and administration, then chose a winner — Larry Johnson.

After Johnson was named the winner, Mr. Wesleyan of 1989, Kyle Minor, performed and then handed over the title.

Everyone enjoyed the competition, as it was a chance to see the talents of a few fellow students.

ISO — AN INTERNATIONAL EVENING

Once again, the International Students' Organization entertains with an international talent that only they can provide. Every spring Alice Leigh brings together all the International Students on campus into one giant Banquet, providing food from cultures ranging from England to Ghana, entertainment ranging from Korea to Norway, and a Fashion Show from every other culture represented at Wesleyan.

Though some thought the price of tickets were a little steep, most all agreed later that it was worth the expense.

Remember, this happens each Spring, so if you missed it this year, don't miss out again!

A CENTENNIAL SPRING SING

April rolled around and the campus found that once again it was time for the every-famous Spring Sing. Every Spring the Fraternities and Sororities on campus get together in healthy competition. During Greek Week, the Fraternities and Sororities compete in various activities: Water Polo, Scavenger Hunts, Oval Events such as a three-legged race, water balloon tossing, and track events. Kappa Alpha and Alpha Xi Delta emerged as the proud victors of these events.

Then came the election of the Spring Sing Queen. This year had a very special theme to it due to the fact that this spring is the Centennial year of the founding of West Virginia Wesleyan College. Thus, the theme for the 1990 Spring Sing was: The Centennial: A Century of Guys and Dolls, 1890-1990.

This year's Queen nominees were: Jennifer Cash, Amy Gamble, Barbara Lewis, Tonya Ross, and Lori-Jill Walkup. The Honor Court: Kelly Gretz, Kimberly Hall, Jennifer Hartshorn, Romanda Hoover, Peggy Huston, Becky Parker, Stephanie Paull, Haromi Sato, and Amy Shimp. Freshman class Attendant was Michelle Berry, Sophomore class Attendant was Erin Lippencott, and Junior class Attendant was Kendra Stemple. The emcees of the occasion were Robert Kleinedler and Eric Waggoner, and presenting the Spring Sing Champion Plaques were Special Activities Chair and Co-Chair Deborah Haynes and Brett Haight, respectively.

GRADUATION 1990

Graduation was, and almost always is, a hectic time for all. The administration and faculty members have to spend a great deal of time organizing the event. The parents of those graduating have to make arrangements to come see the event. And, the students graduating have much to do and think about — they have to prepare for the actual graduation as well as think about what they will do afterwards.

But, so far as the actual graduation goes, much of that is done as is dictated by tradition. As every year, the 1990 graduation began with the Baccalaureate service. Then, graduation activities continued the next day with a parent-senior banquet, during which a few professors and students shared some thoughts of their experiences at Wesleyan.

Finally, there came the moment all seniors had been anticipating — Commencement. This was the moment when President Thomas Courtice handed each senior his diploma. For some, this was a joyous time — it meant that the time had finally come when they could live their lives as they wanted to. But, for others, it was kind of a bittersweet moment — although it meant freedom, the diploma also meant responsibility and going separate ways from their friends.

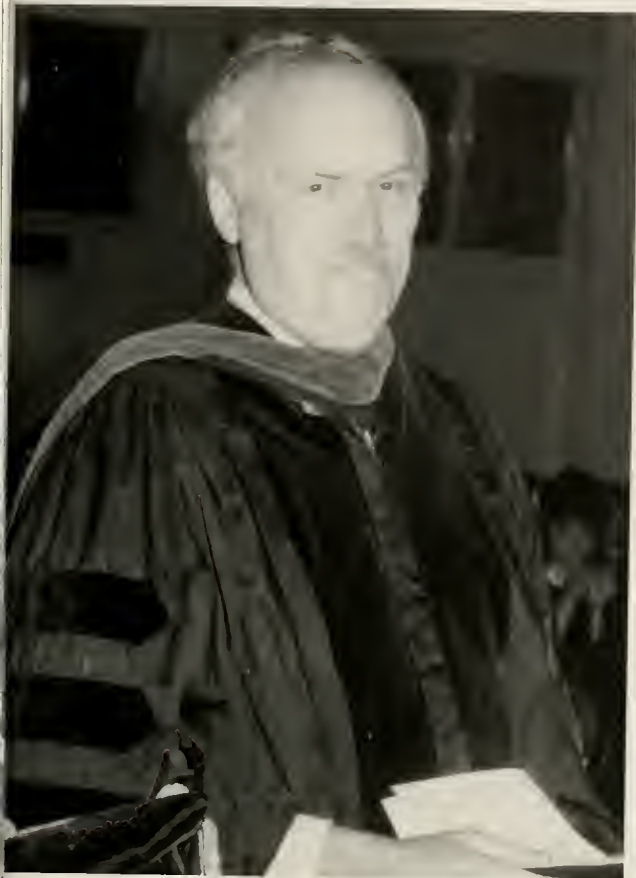

But, no matter how they felt about the graduation, most seniors were glad the time had finally come — it had been a long-awaited moment, and one that did not come easily.

Above: Getting to the point of graduation came easily for none, but no one had it harder than Barbara Lewis when it came to actually graduating — she had to spend graduation in a wheelchair because of her foot injury. Right: Happy and proud, the just-graduated students leave the gym to find friends and family.

THE N.A.I.A. CHAMPS

With a record of 20-3-1, the men's soccer team captured the national title last year, and Derrick Leeson, as well as the members of the team, felt that this was a tremendous accomplishment. But, although it may be that, it was not really surprising to most of the fans of the team. The members of the team worked very hard to achieve this — every day from the end of August to November the players practiced from 3:30 until 6:00.

Because of these daily practices, the members of the team worked very well together, according to Leeson. Each player had a total commitment to the game, which was obvious by the way in which the defense, midfield, and offense supported each other as a unit. Leeson stated that during the championship game, the players defended strong and that they had a lethal offense, which helped the team win the game.

Aside from being the NAIA soccer champs, many of the individuals on the team won post season soccer awards. Michael Thompson, the captain of the Bobcats, won several awards, including First Team All-Conference, Conference Player of the Year, First Team All Area VIII, All South Atlantic Team, NAIA National Tournament MVP, All NAIA National Tournament Team, First Team NAIA All American, and First Team NSCAA/Met Life All American.

Atle Nesheim also won quite a few awards. He was chosen for the honors of most goals in a season by a Wesleyan player (25), most goals by a Wesleyan freshman (25), MVP of Pioneer Classic Tournament, First Team All Conference, All NAIA National Tournament Team, Most Outstanding Offensive Player of the NAIA National Tournament, Second Team NAIA All American, All South Atlantic Team, Eight game winning goals, and three game tying goals.

Colin Locke won First Team All Conference, First Team All Area VIII, All South Atlantic Team, Second Team NSCAA/Met Life All American, Honorable Mention, NAIA All American, thirteen goals, and ten assists.

Shaun Davidson was chosen for First Team All Conference, First Team All Area VIII, All South Atlantic Team, and Honorable Mention, NAIA All American.

Stig Sevaldsen won All NAIA Tournament Team, Second Team All Conference, and the game winning assist in the National Championship match versus Boca Raton.

Petter Tronstad won First Team All Conference, Second Team All Area VIII, thirteen shutouts, .65 goals against the average, and three shutouts in NAIA National Tournament.

Many other members of the team also won awards. Sean Boyle received the honors of Second Team All Conference, two game winning assists, eleven goals, and four assists. Gabriel Okonkwo received Honorable Mention, All Conference, and had three goals, nine assists, and four game winning goals. David Nury won First Team All Conference. Ivor Jordal won Second Team All Conference and had nine goals and three assists. Thomas Bergesen received Honorable Mention, All Conference, had eight goals and eight assists, and had three game winning goals, all in conference play. Jeff Cook received Honorable Mention, All Conference.

Head Coach Derrick Leeson also received several honors after the season. He received the honors of Conference Coach of the Year, South Atlantic Regional Coach of the Year, and NAIA Coaches Association Coach of the year.

In addition to the many awards that were won by the team members, last year was another first for the soccer program. Eric Norton and Nick Johnson were the first ever scholarship players from West Virginia in the history of the soccer program at Wesleyan.

Although last year was anticipated by Leeson to be a tough year for the Bobcats, it was not. He had thought that the season might be difficult because of the fact that only a few of the team members from the previous year were returning to Wesleyan. However, judging from the number of individual awards the team members won and by the capturing of the national title, Leeson had nothing to worry about. The Bobcats were strong last year despite the number of new players.

BEST RECORD IN 30 YEARS

It was definitely a good season for football — the Bobcats had their best record in thirty years, which was quite an accomplishment. Their record was 7-3. Also, the team was nationally ranked for eight out of ten weeks. William Struble commented that the team's success was due to the players' ability to play team ball.

The football players participated in a football camp from August 12-25. They also practiced every Monday through Friday during the season from 4:00-6:00 p.m. Obviously, the members put a lot of effort into improving their record.

Player Nick Calcones received his first All-Conference honor last year. He was the leading rusher. Player Dwayne Jackson received honors also. He was a leading tackler and a third team All-American. Tom Welsh led the team in interceptions. Scott Galmon led the team in receptions with fourteen.

A highlight of the season was Homecoming. West Virginia Tech, ranked number nine in NAIA Division lost to the Bobcats 14-7.

WOMEN'S SOCCER PREMIERE

The fall of 1989 was the inaugural season for the West Virginia Wesleyan women's soccer team. Even though their record was 2-14, they gained some valuable experience. The primary task of head coach Laurie Pinchbeck and assistant Mindy Quigg was the development of some of their players.

Coach Pinchbeck said, "All of our players put in their best effort throughout the season." This included training sessions lasting at least two hours.

Two players for the women's soccer team received individual honors this season. Beth Aronson and Larissa Kory were both selected to the West Virginia Collegiate Soccer Coaches Association Women's All-State Team.

CROSS-COUNTRY RUNNERS UP

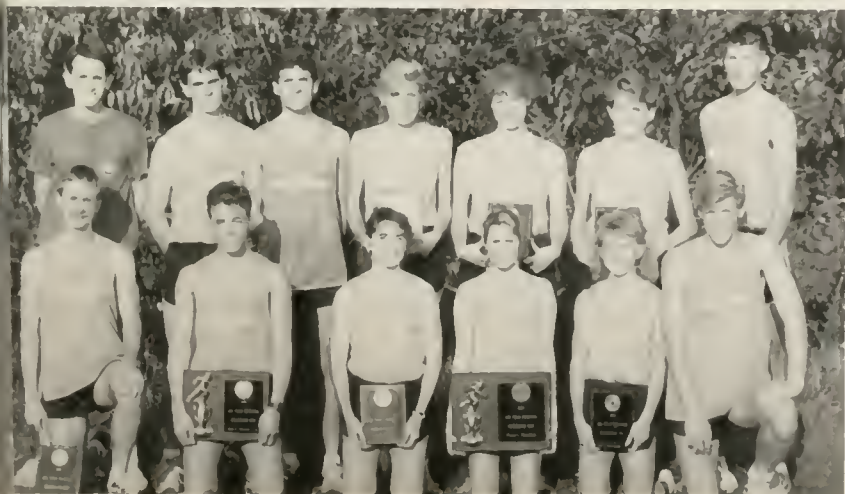

Wesleyan's cross-country teams are making tremendous strides! In 1989 these young Bobcats propelled themselves to the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics cross-country meet in Kenosha, WI. The women's team claimed the 1989 West Virginia Intercollegiate Athletics Conference championship, and Wesleyan's men placed a close second in the race behind nearby rival Davis and Elkins.

Coach Mike Snyder was named WVIAC women's cross-country coach of the year. The women who traveled to Kenosha, WI were: Lisa Calef, Amy Shearman, Jennie Knicely, Jill Banner, and Susie Graham. Doug Grimes recieved All-Conference honors for the men's team.

Although the season did not go as well as everyone had hoped, the women's volleyball season was successful in one way — the team members learned to work well together.

According to the coach, Shari Thomas, the team was very cohesive, and all had the enthusiasm and desire to win. Both of these factors are very important to a volleyball team. The team's biggest weakness was the fact that there weren't any really big hitters on the team.

"Contradictory to their record, which was 10-24, the team did play well — they just couldn't get the win", said Thomas.

Playing well is just as important as winning, and all of the team members worked hard to accomplish this. The week before school started, the team had two three-hour practices a day. Then, once the season began, they practiced every day for two to three hours.

So, the volleyball team proved the old saying to be true — it's not whether you win or lose, it's how you play the game.

WOMEN'S BASKETBALL

A return to the conference proved that the women's basketball team could be successful, even with the loss of two key seniors. With a record of 16-12, the team showed that they had developed unity among the members and that they all had a definite understanding of the meaning of teamwork.

Although the team had the weakness of being inconsistent several times throughout the season, according to coach Kathy Haas, many team members won honors for their efforts out on the court. Vicki Todd and Michelle Moran were both Second Team All-Conference. And, Sarah Kish received several academic honors.

The team's successful season was not due to luck, though — it was due to the hard work of the members. They practiced two hours per day from October 15 until the end of the season.

I am writing this to you, the Wesleyan campus, not as a reflection of my ego, but as an apology. When I agreed to take over the Editor position of this yearbook this past January, I found myself with a book that, after a year and five months of work, had just 25 pages completed. At first I was angry, but I remembered the famous saying "to err is human." With that quote I realized that Heather Willis's overload of responsibilities on campus caused her to let her Editor position become a burden. With this in mind, there should not be any fault found in a single one person, but an understanding that such a situation can happen.

The 1989-90 yearbook is now complete — I owe my girlfriend Diane Runner eternal gratitude for standing by me and helping with the small details, and my best friend Michelle Harbaugh my life for saving it by helping create a year's worth of work in just one semester. This may not be the best yearbook ever published, but it's in your hands.

David Cunningham, Editor 1989-90

During the summer of 1989 Hilary Rodgers died of an accidental death in her home. We here presently at the Murmurmontis came to Wesleyan the fall after her death, and I as Editor just found out of her death one week ago. Due to this oversight and the completion of this already late book, pictures and information about her were not able to be collected. I regret any hard feelings this may cause, but our Memorial to her is this explanation of our mistake.
